

New PIT Weekly Update: Surface parking progress relocates safety, mobile medical partners

As progress continues on the surface parking lots for the new terminal, team members and partners working in jobsite trailers have relocated. The Safety Team and Mobile Medical Services have moved into temporary offices on the first level of the new PIT terminal.

The Safety Team, which is a partnership between the ACAA and our construction teams, provides safety oversight on PIT's modernization project, including developing the safety plan, administering safety regulations, overseeing the site's health and wellness programming and providing safety orientations. Mobile Medical Services provides first aid and medical testing, among other tasks.

"Our safety culture out here on the program is really all based around people – it's people first," said EVP and CDO Paul Hoback. Project safety rates consistently exceed industry averages, a testament to the success of our people-first safety culture and the partnerships that support it.

The ACAA's safety program is unique because it includes the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) as an integral partner, encouraging cooperation among all modernization stakeholders and supporting a safe environment for all project workers. Our partnership with OSHA is the first of its kind in western Pennsylvania.

"There's no other [project] owner that has a partnership with OSHA," said Hoback, "we invite them out on the site all the time."

The Safety Team, which also provides visitor safety orientations, visitor personal protective equipment (PPE) and tour and site walk escorts, is now located just inside the north entrance vestibule on the first level of the new PIT terminal.
