

New PIT Weekly Update: Transforming our airport through partnership

Partnership has driven PIT's transformation. It took a team – partners – working together toward the goal of shaping a more modern airport that reflects, connects and serves the Pittsburgh region to get us where we are now, mere months from opening day.

Long-standing partnerships between the ACAA and the airlines, agencies, officials and organizations that serve our region have inspired our modernization effort. Our partners have invested in PIT; our innovation, our resiliency and how for an entire decade we have redefined not only ourselves, but also what an airport can be.

It's a partnership dynamic that has been years in the making, generating a modernization program that has used no local or state taxpayer dollars to build a better experience for our passengers, team members and, of course, airport partners.

Partnership is founded in mutual investment – as we shape the future of air travel by transforming PIT, we support a better tomorrow for our partners.
